“When I was looking for a leveling system, the most important feature was quality. That’s why I chose HWH”

– Roger Rickman
20-year RV owner

Roger Rickman is unyielding when it comes to quality. He’s demanding of himself, he’s demanding of his professional staff, and he demands excellence when making a major purchase.

Typically, Roger did his homework while hunting for a leveling system on his RV.

“I was looking for a company that built a superior product and had a proven track record for dependability and service.”

He found what he was looking for in HWH.

Roger works in an engineering environment, so he recognizes, and appreciates, precision craftsmanship. After extensive research, Roger was sold on the HWH difference.

“The HWH levelers are really substantial and robust. I especially liked the design features. It’s obvious HWH levelers are custom-made—not one size fits all, like others on the market. It is nice to know that there are still products that are designed, built and installed with quality and customer satisfaction in mind.”

Make an informed decision like Roger when choosing a hydraulic leveling or room extension system. Don’t settle for less. Insist on HWH.
